ADERA GROUP

Rue du Port 12, CH-1204 Geneva, Switzerland
aderagroup.com

PRESS RELEASE

Adera Group Acquires Pltfm to Support Pricing, Risk and Physical Trade Management for Commodity Traders and Producers

Geneva, Switzerland, 9 September 2026 — Adera Group today announced the acquisition of Pltfm (pltfm.app), a derivatives pricing, risk management and physical trade management platform purpose-built for commodity markets and designed to support trading houses, mining companies, producers and other commodity market participants.

Pltfm will continue to operate as an independent brand and subsidiary of Adera Group, retaining its existing team, product roadmap, and commitment to serving external clients with strict confidentiality and data segregation.

The acquisition serves a dual purpose for Adera Group. Pltfm's technology — spanning derivatives pricing, market risk, credit exposure, provisional pricing and physical commodity trade management — will strengthen Adera's own origination, commercial structuring and transaction follow-up capabilities across its base metals activities.

At the same time, Adera's backing will accelerate Pltfm's expansion as a commercial product for trading houses, mining companies, producers and other commodity market participants. This includes the continued development of capabilities for refined metals, metal intermediates including concentrates, trade finance, quotational-period risk management, pricing optionality, P&L monitoring and transaction workflow automation.

Rue du Port 12, CH-1204 Geneva, Switzerland
aderagroup.com

"Pltfm gives us institutional-grade pricing and risk infrastructure that understands the realities of physical metals trading and production — provisional pricing, payables, quotational periods, pricing optionality and transaction follow-up," said Joel Adams, Executive Chairman, Adera Group. "This is highly relevant not only for trading houses, but also for mining companies and producers that need clearer visibility over pricing, risk and commercial exposure. We are equally excited about what Pltfm can become as an independent product, and we intend to invest behind that."

"Joining Adera Group means we can develop Pltfm with a partner that understands the practical requirements of physical commodity markets," said Gavin Brennan, Founder of Pltfm. "Our clients will continue to benefit from the same platform and team, now with additional resources and market access to accelerate our roadmap for traders, producers and other commodity market participants."

The transaction has been completed on the 30th of June 2026.

About Adera Group

Adera Group is a Geneva-based origination and commercial partner serving the international metals trading ecosystem. The company identifies and qualifies opportunities, connects reliable counterparties and supports the commercial structuring and follow-up of transactions, with a primary focus on concentrates, intermediate and refined metals. Adera opens the right doors, qualifies the right opportunities and helps the right partners move forward with confidence.

About Pltfm

Pltfm is a derivatives pricing, risk management and physical trade management platform for commodity markets. The platform supports pricing, market and credit risk, provisional pricing, P&L monitoring, workflow automation and physical trade management. Built on the open-source Qwack quantitative library, Pltfm serves trading houses, mining companies, producers, consumers and other participants across the metals complex. Pltfm operates independently, with strict confidentiality, data segregation and controlled access for each client.

Learn more at pltfm.app.

Media Contact

Tania Kebbe |
info@aderagroup.com
+41 22 310 05 58